Profile Summary

I'm a passionate student developer who enjoys crafting projects that blend creativity with practical solutions. I focus on building engaging, user-friendly experiences inspired by classic game aesthetics and clean design. When I'm not coding, I explore open-source projects and retro styles to sharpen my skills and fuel my creativity.

Currently studying in Japan, I'm embracing the culture and discipline here. This international perspective fuels my desire to build software that bridges cultural gaps and makes technology feel friendly and intuitive.
